

COOKIES POLICY

This site uses cookies. This Cookies Policy explains what cookies are, how Nicholas Investment Partners (NIP) use cookies on our website, and what you can do to manage how cookies are used.

Cookies are small text data file stored on your computer or mobile device to by websites you visit to help sites recognize and track user preferences. As a rule, cookies will make your browsing experience better. Depending on the type, cookies may be stored for the duration of your visit to a website and are deleted from your device when you close your browser or are saved on your device for a fixed period of time after the browser has closed and are activated each time you visit the website where the cookie was generated.

Types of Cookies

Strictly Necessary Cookies

These cookies allow you to navigate our website and use its features. Without these cookies, some services (such as navigating between pages) may not work. These cookies do not track your internet browsing history and do not gather information about you that could be used for marketing purposes.

Website Functionality Cookies

Website functionality cookies are used to remember user preferences on our websites and to provide you with certain functionality for ease of use. For example, NIP may use cookies to remember choices you make, to recognize the browser from which you accessed the site, or to provide enhanced and more personal features. These cookies do not track your internet browsing history but can be used to help with marketing.

Google Analytics Performance Cookies

These cookies are a type of performance cookie that NIP uses to collect information about how visitors use our website. NIP uses the information to help us improve a visitor's website experience and learn more about their activity at our site. We do not, however, share personal data with Google Analytics. Information on Google Analytics can be found in the link. <https://cop.evidon.com/companies/google-analytics>

Disabling cookies

If you do not agree to the use of these cookies, you may disable them by following the instructions for your browser described at <http://www.allaboutcookies.org/manage-cookies/>. If you would like to opt out of Google Analytics cookies, please do so at <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>

Please be aware that some of our services may not function if you disable cookies. If you experience any problems resulting from deleted cookies, you should contact your web browser provider.

Consent

By using this website you consent to the processing of data about you in a manner consistent with this Cookies Policy.